

We Are Pronounced As God's Anointed

Over the years I have been privileged to perform several weddings. Most of the brides and grooms want to be a little different in their vows or order or something. Some want candles and some do not want candles. They want their wedding to be unique. One thing that does not change is the ending.

At the end of the wedding, before the groom gets to kiss his bride, I make a proclamation. By the power granted to me by the State of Arkansas and by the authority of God, I pronounce you husband and wife.

As I make that proclamation, I know that they do not know exactly what that means. They do not know then but hopefully they will find out. It takes me just a moment to make the statement, but it will take both of them a lifetime trying to do what I just pronounced. It will take a lifetime of effort to truly be husband and wife.

God has pronounced you anointed. What does that mean? You will spend the rest of your life learning everything the proclamation means. You will spend the rest of your life living out the purpose you were anointed for.

When we get married, people are free with their advice on how to be a husband or wife. Some advice is good and some is wrong. There is no written manual.

God has spoken to proclaim we are anointed and He has spoken to tell what that means in our life on earth. God has spoken through Jesus so we can know what our anointed purpose is. God's written word is available to instruct us on how to fulfill our purpose.
